A mad and wild Aussie experience

Mad Jack Café is the newest addition to the eateries at Seletar Hills. Located at Jalan Kayu, the four-month-old café is also a neighbour to the famous Jalan Kayu roti prata.

It seemed like sheer madness when Mr Jack Chin, business development director of the café, decided to go against such tough competition, but the idea of luring roti prata patrons over with good western food made business sense.

Wherever possible, Mad Jack Café tries to make its food healthy. The café stands firm with its policy of not using MSG, tenderizer and preservatives in its food.

Take its signature dish, fish & chips ($6.90), for example. Two crispy and juicy chunks of fish fillet are not only complemented with fries but also diced fruits and vegetables.

Our vote, however, goes to the grilled fish burger ($4.30) and burger with homemade beef patty ($3.30). The former is special because you seldom see a huge chunk of grilled fish slapped between fresh tomatoes, vegetables and sesame-seed buns. As for the latter, slices of carrot, onion and oat are added to the homemade beef patties to give a refreshing taste. These burgers will give fast food burger joints a run for their money.

Feeling guilty about such indulgence? Wash it all down with the wacky Doctor Juices, therapeutic juices with 'healing powers'. With names like Cholesterol Buster, Blood Pressure Reducer and Brain Simulator (all $3.80), you get the idea.

If you still have room for dessert, do not miss out on Mad & Rich (rich chocolate cake with ice cream, $5.30) or the Wild Boy (banana crumble with ice cream and caramel sauce, $3.80).

Don't go mad over where to eat - give the place a try. ■
