You'll go bonkers over the insanely good chow at Mad Jack Cafe. Specialising in Australian delights, Mad Jack Café has one of the best fish 'n' chips ($6.90) our gobbling mouths have ever tasted in Singapore. Prepared in authentic Aussie style with a crispy batter crust cradling the moist fillet inside, their serving portions are welcomingly generous. Up for the 'Tallest Burger Award' is their jaw-dropping Blue Mountain burger ($6.90) – a towering stack of bun, juicy meat patties, lettuce, tomato, cheese, and pineapple that will bring out the carnivore in you. Then tuck into their desserts – there're quite a few concoctions made with bananas 'cos we hear the boss is well, bananas about the fruit. While you're at it, check out their new Asian menu that includes Nasi Lemak and other local goodies. It's maddeningly tasty food at crazily affordable prices! Also visit their other branch at 6 Dukes Road, which closes earlier at 11pm. L
